QUICK BRIEFS

Turkey Shoot

The fifth annual turkey shoot is scheduled to take place from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. today at the south wall of Bldg. 431. The cost is $1 a shot to have a chance to win a turkey. The turkey shoot consists of shooting a pellet from either a pump-up pellet pistol from 20 feet or a pump-up pellet rifle from 25 feet into a 3x5 card with a small circle on it. If you hit the circle you win a 10-12 pound turkey. Part of the proceeds from the turkey shoot will benefit Project Warmheart. For more information, call Ray Pope, 654-4774.

Holiday mailing deadlines

Deadlines for mailing holiday packages to servicemembers overseas are rapidly approaching. The Postal Service is providing free "mailing kits" each containing four Priority Mail boxes, six Priority Mail flat rate boxes, 10 Priority Mail labels, one roll of Priority Mail tape and 10 customs forms with envelopes. Send as much as you can fit into a priority mail flat-rate box to any APO or FPO address for $8.10, regardless of weight. Pay attention to the suggested deadlines as mailing is expected to be heavy this year.

The following are for Christmas Delivery. Hanukkah deadlines are 10 days earlier.

Space-Available Mail--Nov. 27

Parcel Airlift Mail-- Dec. 4

Priority Mail--Dec. 11

First class (letters and cards)--Dec. 11

Express Mail Military Service--Dec. 19

Except for mail going to APO/FPO zip codes; deadlines for those locations is Dec. 4

EMMS not available for APO/FPO starting 093

Archeological Society

Do you like digging in the dirt? Then the Concho Valley Archeological Society is for you! The nonprofit organization is offering free membership to military members and their dependents. For more information call, Richard Fiveash at 651-7163

Christmas at Fort Concho

This year's Christmas at Old Fort Concho event takes place Dec. 1-3 at the Fort Concho Historic Landmark. Three days of shopping, living history, entertainment and shows are featured at the event. Discount tickets for military personnel are available.

For more information, call 481-2646 or visit www.fortconcho.com.

17th Medical Group closure

17 MDG's last appointment for Wednesday will be at 10:30 a.m. The hour is calculated to allow all Medical Group employees to celebrate a Thanksgiving meal.

Remembering our veterans

By CAPT. JEFF CLARK

386TH EXPEDITIONARY WING PUBLIC AFFAIRS

SOUTHWEST ASIA -- More than 300 U.S. military members and multinational partners gathered by the base flagpole Nov. 10 to honor U.S. veterans in general and specifically Airman 1st Class Elizabeth Jacobson.

Jacobson was killed while on a convoy near Camp Bucca, Iraq, on Sept. 28, 2005 when her vehicle was hit by an improvised explosive device. She was the first female Airman killed in the line of duty supporting Operation Iraqi Freedom.

The tribute included a retreat ceremony, a memorial and emotional words from 386th Air Expeditionary Wing commander, Col. Paul Curlett.

"Article one of the Code of Conduct states 'I am an American, fighting in the forces which guard my country and our way of life. I am prepared to give my life in their defense.' This reminds us that while many will give some, Airman 1st Class Elizabeth Jacobson gave all," Curlett said. "Remember her and all veterans."

The ceremony continued with a small group of security forces members placing boots, a helmet with Jacobson's name and an M-4 assault rifle in front of a Code of Conduct plaque. One member of the group, Senior Airman Nykita Stoudemire, was deployed with Jacobson last year and was honored to be a part of the ceremony.

"It means a lot to me to be here and be able to be a part of this," Stoudemire said. "It's especially important to do it for Veterans Day."

Echoing those sentiments was Senior Airman Jennifer

Smith, who was also deployed with Jacobson at Camp Bucca last year and was a part of the ceremony as a member of the flag detail who secured the colors in a unique, but fitting way. The U.S. flag, which is being sent to Airman Jacobson's parents, was driven off in a security forces Humvee, the gunner of which, Senior Airman Steven Eckmeyer, was not only deployed with Jacobson last year, but was the driver of the truck behind her vehicle when the IED exploded.

Once the ceremony ended, the crowd moved up the road for the final tribute; a street

Thanks for being a "front-liner"

BY LT. COL. SUSAN BAKER

17TH MEDICAL SUPPORT SQUADRON
COMMANDER

The holidays are here again. It seems like each year during the holidays my family celebrations are spread further across the country as well as across time. You see, I'm from a family of "front liners" - linemen, firefighters, paramedics, nurses, and now, military personnel. We live all over, from Pennsylvania to California, and various stops in between.

When I was still in school, the holidays started with Thanksgiving at my home. It was then, and still is, my favorite holiday. Lots of great food, no presents to buy, comfortable clothes, football and great movies - what's not to like? We started the holiday season with a huge meal, usually spread out over hours so that the linemen out in bad weather (that was Pennsylvania, remember), had a meal when they got home, the medics could eat before or after shifts, and our firefighters could eat between calls.

I guess I didn't know any better and never expected all of us to sit down at the same table at the same time on the same day.

Grandparents and other friends and family dropped in and out all the rest of the season, depending upon who had to be somewhere when, and whether the hunting was good. Holidays became one large, progressive feast from Thanksgiving to New Year's Day.

Now, with one sister stationed at Edwards AFB, California, one sister still in Pennsylvania, and me in Texas, my family's holiday celebration takes on a slightly different hue. This year, my parents will be with my sister in Pennsylvania on Thanksgiving Day, then travel for a combined Thanksgiving and Christmas in California, and actually have Christmas in Texas.

So, our "front-liners" will start the holidays as we have in the past. Thanksgiving will be drawn out, with many chances to meet and greet others, running right up to New Year's Day. My sons, Mike and Matt, already know their extended families and most of their friends are "front-liners".

For them, the joy of celebrating so often is a thrill. They are planning how they want the celebrations this year to happen. Matt, who is almost four, is preparing to help some senior citizens enjoy Thanksgiving in San Angelo.

Baker

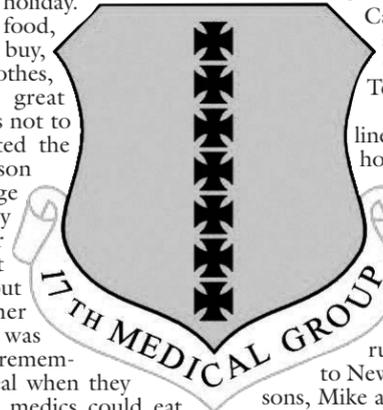

While he's drawing and cutting and pasting placemats for that celebration, he's decided that additional placemats are necessary at home, for our table, so that we celebrate just like his friends will for Thanksgiving. Mike, who is almost six, is working the schedule for the holidays. He's keeping track of what celebrations will be where and when, and he reminds me every day that he has "nine whole days" for Thanksgiving this year. So far, he's planned meals of turkey, corn dogs, and waffles for some of those days, and he's working to include cookie delivery trips everywhere he has friends in the local precincts, fire departments, and hospitals.

They are learning early that we "front-liners" can't all be at the same table at the same time. I'm praying that our friends and family members who are in far-distant places have a hot meal and someone to talk with for a few minutes, in the midst of their work.

I know that if it weren't for all of the "front-liners", we couldn't enjoy what we have - freedom, health, prosperity, and safety - in this holiday season.

Thank you for being a "front-liner", too. It's not easy; it's not often glamorous; but, if my sons and their friends' actions are any indication, we "front-liners" are remembered, even if we're at different tables at different times.

Helping warm hearts for 2006

(Far left) Staff Sgt. Melissa Peckovitch from the 315th Training Squadron watches as her 3-year-old son, Trey Washington, hands Mary Hankins a list of items to purchase for food donations to this year's Operation Warmheart Nov. 11 near the main entrance to the Goodfellow Commissary. Also pictured is 4-year-old Kamryn Johnson (center) with her grandfather, Master Sgt. Victor De la Rosa, first sergeant from the 17th Communication Squadron standing behind her. The two children helped pass out the lists to people walking by the commissary. Operation Warm Heart is a program headed by the Goodfellow First Sergeants' Council. The program is designed to help local military families in need during the holiday season by providing them with needed food items to make a traditional holiday meal. Volunteers will be on hand once again in front of the commissary to collect donations for Operation Warmheart this Saturday. Cash donations are also accepted. A list of food items to donate for Operation Warmheart is shown below. Contact your unit's first sergeant for more information.

dedication in Airman Jacobson's honor. The road from the entry control point called Echo 4 to the Republic of Korea Air Force compound is now Jacobson Avenue. There is a photo of Airman Jacobson along with an inscribed plaque on the wall inside the Desert Winds dining facility that explains who Airman Jacobson was to ensure she'll be remembered at the Rock for years to come.

Eckmeyer was as humbled and proud as the others to be able to honor Elizabeth and all veterans and to remember the person Airman Jacobson was.

"She was always happy and loved what she was doing," Eckmeyer said. "No matter how bad a day you were having, she'd put a smile on your face."

That spirit is evident in a quote taken from a letter Airman Jacobson had written for family and friends which is included on the plaque in the dining facility, "we're only on Earth for a little while, so live life to the fullest and carry a smile."

RETIREE AFFAIRS

The 17th Training Wing Retiree Activities Office and the 17th Medical Group sponsored the annual Goodfellow Retiree Appreciation Day and Health Fair November 4 from 8 a.m. until noon at the Goodfellow Clinic.

More than 160 retirees from all services and their spouses spent the morning finding out about their health and learning about their military retiree benefits.

This year's event was different than in the past, in that it was arranged as a continuous and ongoing information fair, with health prevention information and benefits commingled with "regular" military retiree benefit information and community services.

Throughout the event the retirees received updates on and learned how to improve and maintain a healthy lifestyle, and learned the latest information concerning their retiree status.

The retirees received their annual flu shots and were able to speak to medical providers about any health issues they may have had.

Lots of health related information was provided, including cancer prevention, nutrition, medication safety, dental screenings, public health, physical therapy, and behavioral health, depression, proper exercise, glaucoma screening, tobacco use, and they also had their hearing tested.

The retirees also received information about their current Goodfellow and Department of Defense benefits. The 17th Training Wing Legal Office, SENIOR, Defense Commissary Agency, 17th Services Division, Airman and Family Readiness Center, Workforce Solutions, and the local Veteran's County Service Office all presented materials about their services for retirees.

Last, but not least, healthy (and very tasty) refreshments were provided by the staff of Community Medical Center's "Let's Eat" cooking show and the Shannon Dietary Department.

This year's Retiree Appreciation Day and Health Fair was a resounding success, and will be hard to top next year. But all those who volunteer their time and efforts to these events will try their best to make the next one even better.

Exercise tests Goodfellow troops in war-time environment

Col. Andrew Britschgi, 17th Training Wing vice commander, plays the role of installation commander for Camp Kandahar during a deployment exercise Tuesday at Camp Sentinel, a field training exercise site on Goodfellow. The colonel gave the exercise's initial briefing.

By AIRMAN 1ST CLASS LUIS LOZA GUTIERREZ
STAFF WRITER

Approximately 80 members from Goodfellow participated in a recent deployment exercise Tuesday at the field training exercise site, Camp Sentinel.

The deployment exercise, officially named Scarlet Hawk SH-06-08, was designed to evaluate the 17th Training Wing's ability to develop personnel down range and to sustain operations in a war time environment, according to Tammy Eggers, 17 TRW Operations Plans Division chief.

Members from the wing's logistics readiness, contracting and communications squadrons were three of more than a dozen base organizations that participated in the 7-hour long exercise.

Fifteen Exercise Evaluation Team evaluators observed and graded participants in the various scenarios created for the exercise. The participants pretended to be deployed to Camp Kandahar, Afghanistan. The exercise had Col. Andrew Britschgi, vice commander of the 17 TRW, act as the camp's commander, a role he passionately displayed during the exercise's initial briefing in which he referred to himself as 'invincible' in a tone and demeanor similar to that of the great Army Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who was Supreme Commander of Allied forces in the Southwest Pacific Area during World War II.

Col. Britschgi's claim to invincibility was cut short as he fell into the tent where members of the 17th Medical Group had just finished putting on their chemical protective overgarments and gas masks just seconds after a MOPP (Mission Oriented Protective Posture) 4 alarm red ground attack had sounded. The medical staff quickly tended to the colonel, who as he fell, stayed true to his role and in deep, pain-filled voice said "I have a strong pain in my chest."

Sad to say, but the colonel didn't make it. He was pronounced dead by medical personnel. The cause of death was cited as heart attack.

Although the colonel received no Oscar for his performance, it did create a new unexpected scenario for the chapel staff, which had to implement a memorial service in addition to developing a religious service schedule that would not conflict with the meal schedule developed by services.

Maj. Michael Gayer, commander of the 17th Mission Support Squadron became the camp's commander upon the sudden passing of Col. Britschgi.

Other exercise scenarios included evaluations on the creation of a daily camp newsletter by the camp's public affairs specialist, clearing sand off and conducting repairs to a damaged runway, reporting casualties and administering self aid buddy care. The exercise allowed participants to also fire a few rounds from M-16 A2 assault rifles and conduct sweeps for UXOs.

After a few more hours and a thorough sweep of the camp for trash and equipment pick up, the exercise concluded with the dusty exercise participants returning to the Vance Deployment Center.

Although the EET is prohibited from disclosing the results of the exercise evaluations, Ms. Eggers was quick to highlight the participation by both the wing senior leadership and the 344th Military Intelligence Battalion.

"Sgt. 1st Class Thomas D. Myers, worked with us to ensure the camp was available and ready for our use. Lt. Col. Kemp Chester (344 MIB commander) provided injects for the Air Force teams by responding to the command trailer and requesting assistance from the camp commander for supplies as well as assistance with contracting the local nationals for various tasks," Ms. Eggers said.

The participation by the Army created a great scenario which illustrate the collaboration between our services which usually takes place in real-world war time environments, added Ms. Eggers.

...Count down to Exodus

Less than two months remain until the Holiday Exodus, which is scheduled this year to start at 11:59 p.m. on Dec. 21 and end on Jan 2, 2007. The most important information is the departure date and location.

On the evening of Dec. 21 students will form up at the Carswell Field House to await transportation to one of three airports-Dallas/Fort Worth, San Antonio and Midland-Odessa.

Busses will transport students and their luggage to the airports. People must realize once their baggage is stored after they check in at Carswell, they will not have access to it again until departure time.

Plenty of entertainment and food will be on hand for the students awaiting transportation for their holiday trips home. Several base agencies will be open to provide entertainment during the wait. The base library, theater, event center, bowling alley, and shoppette will be open extended hours the evening of the 21st. (Article by Staff Sgt. Carissa Lee, Editor.)

MOVIES

Movies start at 7 p.m. in the base theater unless otherwise noted. Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for children under 11. Movie times and shows are subject to change without notice.

Employee of the Month

Friday
 Dane Cook and Jessica Simpson star in this film rated PG-13. For workers at Super Club, the most coveted honor is the "Employee of the Month" award, and having one's photo immortalized on the wall of fame in the staff lounge. Enter Zack Bradley and Vince Downey, two ultra competitive Super Club workers whose ten years of employment have resulted in drastically different career paths. The duo's longtime rivalry comes to a bitter head when Amy--a beautiful new cashier with a reputation of only dating "Employee of the Month" winners--transfers to the store, immediately becoming the object of both Zack and Vince's affection and often comical gamesmanship.

The Marine

Saturday
 John Cena and Robert Patrick star in this film rated PG-13. John Triton is a heroic Marine who returns home after being discharged--against his will--from the Iraq War. Stateside, he finds himself back in action, when his wife is kidnapped by a murderous gang led by a merciless criminal named Rome. With everything on the line, the Marine will stop at nothing to carry out his toughest and most important mission.

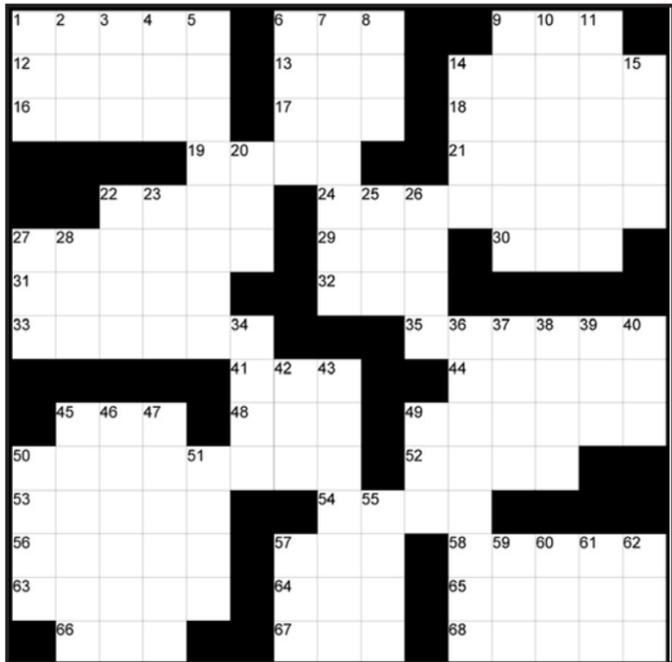

Everyone's Hero

Sunday at 6 p.m.
 Whoopi Goldberg and Rob Reiner star in this G-rated film. A young boy finds himself at an extraordinary crossroads: He has a chance to be a hero - and make a difference against incredible odds - or he can play it safe. With faith in himself instilled by his family, he teams up with a sassy young girl and some off-the-wall sidekicks and embarks on a sometimes perilous, often funny, cross-country quest. In the process, he restores his family's honor, befriends the world's biggest sports superstar, and reveals the hero within.

ASU honors Veterans with free game

Army veteran, Orville Fletcher (striped shirt) and San Angelo resident Bill Westbrook hold their hats over their hearts during as the Angelo State University marching band played America the Beautiful during a special half time performance of the final regular season football game between the ASU Rams and the Texas A & M Kingsville Javelinas Nov. 11 at Angelo Stadium. ASU offered free admission to U.S. military veterans.

ASU tight end, Jason Watson, prepares to make a catch with an A & M defender closing in from behind. ASU went on to win the game 38 to 20.

Retired Army Chief Warrant Officer Coy Byrd and his wife Linda, 17th Training Wing vice commander secretary, enjoy watching the football action during the third quarter.

(Center) ASU mascot Rosco Ram joins members of the ASU ROTC Detachment 847 cheer on the Rams during the 4th quarter of the game.
